

Internal stresses can cause compression, leading to mountains

Internal stresses can pull the crust apart, leading to valleys

